HOME WORK AND QUIZZES

MODULE - CAPITAL AND REVENUE EXPENDITURE AND NON-CURRENT ASSET LEDGER

Welcome to Master Principles of Accounts!

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN

At the end of the lesson, you will be able to:

- 1) Explain the difference between capital and revenue expenditure
- 2) Classify items as capital or revenue expenditure
- 3) State the effect on profit for the period and non-current assets when there is a wrong classification of revenue or capital expenditure
- 4) Explain the treatment of capital and revenue expenditure in relation to the materiality theory interpretation of non-current asset ledger

The handout also features a 'PROBLEM ANALYSIS' section with a cartoon character and a 'TEST (MCQ)' button. Below that is a 'TYPES OF EXPENDITURES' section defining 'Expenditure' as the acquisition of goods or usage of services, which can be recorded as either assets or expenses, depending on whether they benefit future periods or only the current period.

At the bottom of the handout, there is a 'DOWNLOAD' button for the worksheet.

- You may also access the session recordings and materials in our student learning portal based on the topics you've signed up for after the series is completed.
